Plus, Rihanna's new sunglasses collection with Dior, the latest update to Victoria's Secret services (or missing them), and Fergie's new hair, front. Too Faced's new palette for summer is called Absolutely Cute and comes with a pack of '90s-esque stickers. We have to go. Rihanna created a line of sunglasses in collaboration with Dior. We have to go. Pink's reaction to meeting Johnny Depp for the first time was amazing. We have to go. Call all the kids the '90s: Disney's marathon of original movies begins Friday! We have to go. A new French law condemns the inspection of work emails at weekends. We have to go. Make-up artist Gwen Stefani responded to haters who criticised the singer's Billboard Music Awards beauty. We have to go. Never ignore these five strange and subtle heart attack symptoms. We have to go. The Victoria's Secret story continues: Brands will no longer print their iconic mailing order catalogue. We have to go. Fergie is the newest member of the lob barber club. We have to go. Always feeling bloated? Here are nine things (besides your diet) that could be the culprit. [Well + Good] This is what happened when guys tried to wear high heels for a day. We have to go. Kim Kardashian (or at least one of her assistants) dyed her Cannes red carpet dress with tea bags in the hotel bathroom. We have to go. For the best beauty products, take a look: pack a printed image tape from the printer, or an image from a magazine (it can be colored) a container of water in which the scissors: the original image will be destroyed1. Take your picture and include it in packing tape 2. cut out image 3. put the image in the water for about 1-2 minutes 4. Take out the water and put it face down on a flat surface and rub the paper until it comes out 5. Let it dry so it can stick again 6. stick it to somethingWarning: anything white will become transparent because the tape just takes the ink I created instructable because I love getting stickers from different brands and have found a great way to help them advertise and get stickers sent to me without sending a SASE (Self Address Stamped Envelope). All you usually need to do is email and ask politely for some stickers to advertise for Company X. Please follow for cooler instructables and share this with your friends!! * Note, there are still companies that will require SASE but, I find that I am 50% more likely to receive stickers sent to me when following these rules. Polite and honest are two of the most important things when it comes to requests. If you just send an email that says Send me some of your stickers and that would be cool and stuff. - that's not going to work. (Just like a test I've and was rejected each time). Instead, use and thank you, not so much, but be polite. For example, hi, I was wondering if you could please send me a few stickers for my X item. That would be really cool! Thank you a ton! X NameHonesty is also really important. Don't pretend you're some world-class Heli-Skier or Downhill Mountain Biker if you don't - - say what you really want to paste for - your shirt (lol), your water bottle, or your car. Including your address is another important aspect. When you send an email, include your address. This allows the company to immediately send you stickers instead of experiencing the hassle of requesting your address. Basically make it as easy as possible for them to slap a stamp on an envelope and get the sticker for you. An example would be: ..... Thank you very much! X NameAddress: John Smith 1234 Palm Tree Way X Town, X State X ZipMost company will send more stickers (significantly more) if you include a dollar or two in cash in your SASE in case they ask you to send one. Just remember to put it inside a piece of paper, so it is not so easily distinguishable from the outside. Most vehicles on the road blend in because they don't have any features that set them apart. If you have to remove it and put it in another position, it will lose some of its adhesion. Cleaning bumpers or other surface areas first to remove dirt. Use warm soap and water, let the area dry, and then place the sticker in place of your choice. Try to avoid any bubbles or ripples when you apply bumper stickers as these will make it wear out faster. It is best to place a sticker on a smooth surface rather than a point with a rough texture so that it will last longer. A: Make sure to use specially designed tips as bumper stickers and not regular paper stickers. Also, remove the sticker carefully so that you do not take the paint off with it. Peel slowly, and use a hair dryer if necessary. Do not use something as sharp as a razor blade. Q: How do I fix bubbles on stickers? A: Heat the sticker for about a minute with a hair dryer to soft adhesive. Then press the bubbles towards the edge of the sticker. Q: What kind of bumper sticker should I get? A: It's entirely up to you. However, some bumper stickers are very polar and can annoy other drivers. If that doesn't bother you, then express yourself as you wish. Stickii Club Secret Garden Cute Pack Review It's time of year again! We've received this little card showing what this year's calendar will look like. 1 of 3 2 of 3 of 3 Stickii Archive Secret Garden Corner Labels & Storage Sleeve The theme of this month's Stickii Club package is Secret Garden and while that sounds like a spring theme, I think they managed to make it feel more like autumn! They offer these cute corner stickers for us to stick on the plan-sized storage sleeves that come with to show the theme. Watering Can Clip This Paperclip is very cute and perfect for our garden theme! Rabbit Notes Note This notepad has a nice classic feel! It really reminded me of the artwork from Beatrice Potter's book. This was designed by Nimasprout. Seed envelopes These little seed envelopes are too cute! I love the little flowers on the back envelope cover! Mischievous Kitties Washi Tape It's so fun when they include something a little different. These lovely washi ribbons are designed by loststreetkat and while the cats are cute, I just love the little bear growers at the bottom! Garden Guardian Stickers This sticker was also designed by Nimasprout and has the Beatrice Potter feel like our notepad. I love the color of washing water behind every little character! Animal Planter Stickers This full size sheet designed by loststreetkat has some similar cute pictures from our washi tape. I love sleepy Siamese cats on the basket! Little Sad Cactus Stickers How interesting are these stickers? I love cute cacti in their costumes and jack-o-lamps Small for this an interesting fall vibe! They were designed by BlueBean. Big Cactus Stickers To go with lovely sheets from BlueBean, we also get three bigger loose How cute! Stickii Plant Stickers This sweet plate has some similar designs from our small seed envelope. I love the palette and all the little flowers scattered throughout. Little Peep Stickers This final sheet is a little different than the rest of our design, but I think these little birds work well in a garden theme! They remind me of marshmallow peeps! Verdict: This month's Stickii Club collection is really cute, but there's also a gorgeous classic vibe to it! I think the set was very cohesive for the most part and I loved that they were able to combine more of an autumn garden theme. This month I received a sticker sleeve, a corner sticker, a paperclip, a notepad, 2 envelopes, 3 large stickers, a sheet of washi tape, and 5 sheets of stickers for just $11 ($10+$1 shipping). These stickers would be great for decorating a plan or calendar with! To Wrap Up: Can you still get this box if you sign up today? No, but pre-order by November 7 to receive the November package. Value analysis: This box costs $10+$1 shipping, which means that each of the 12 types of items in the box (including storage sleeves and individual corner stickers) costs an average of about $0.92.
